Oscar Whitcomb and son took a trip to White Branch fishing the first of the week. Had a nice lot of trout, but a grand ducking. No fun without some drawback.

Dr. Scott decided with the word that came back from Burlington to vaccinate the cattle that was left in the pasture where two head was dead last Saturday. All hope there will be no more trouble.

With what grief was the sad news heard Friday that threw the town in despair. It can truly be said the best we had was in that accident and the deepest sympathy goes from all to the ones in their great sorrow.

Mr. Shoran has decided to remain in town and taken D. Trudeau's farm right near the school. It will be very pleasant for his little folks. All glad they have decided to remain.

Mrs. Warren Whitcomb came home Sunday from the Mary Fletcher hospital. She is a great deal better in many ways and the rest was just what she needed, for it is hard to sit down and let the work go, if able to drag around.

Won't that some rain Sunday, and did you see the storm clouds in the evening? Not often they look so grand. The clouds parted and half followed up the Lamolite and the other half went up the Gihon to Eden before the downpour.

Miss Collins' school closed with a picnic. Ice cream and cake, sandwiches, candy and lemonade; music, both vocal and instrumental. One of her scholars, a boy, who moved away to Johnson, came up for the day and gave her a set of teaspoons.

School closed Thursday with a picnic in the Barnes District. Ice cream and cake took up the noon hour. A program was carried out in the afternoon and showed the teacher had put a great deal of work. Her young folks did credit to themselves and their school.

Trim, Miss Elizabeth Noyes' fine Cooley dog, had a meeting with his first hedgehog last Friday. As soon as he found he had met something more than a cat, he started for his mistress and she had him etherized and quills removed. He is a wiser dog now and it will be some time before he gets caught again.
